Abstract

This article mentions legal education, Legal education, legal culture, legal literacy, and scientifically analyses these concepts, which are the main factor and guarantor of the restoration and development of a Democratic state and civil society. In particular, the higher the legal knowledge, culture and spirituality of the population, the stronger the rule of law state.

Keywords: Law, Legal education, Democratic state, legal education, civil society, rule of law, Legal literacy.

As we move towards a state governed by the rule of law, our students should be perfectly aware of the laws, the huge changes in public administration, the freedoms granted to people, citizens. This, in turn, requires them not only to know their rights, freedoms, duties, but also the ability to apply them in practice, in building a civil society, in implementing reforms. The restoration and strengthening of civil society in our country, the deepening of democratic reforms, the improvement of its legal foundations, legal foundations are inextricably linked with the political and legal activity of a citizen, the level of his consciousness, knowledge. Today, there is a growing demand for legal knowledge and culture in our country. The higher the legal knowledge, culture and spirituality of the population, the stronger the rule of law will be, the stronger our independence will be, and it will continue to stabilize. Now there are rules that a charismatic person living in a state governed by the rule of law cannot reach spiritual and moral maturity without knowing the laws established by society, laws adopted by the state, and existing legal criteria. Legal knowledge and culture are one of the most important factors of the maturity of the nation and human perfection. Although the formation of legal knowledge and culture begins with the family, it is taught, developed, stabilized theoretically and practically mainly in educational institutions. "Education should be aimed at the full improvement of the human personality and respect for fundamental human freedoms and human rights" - it is not for nothing recognized in international documents. The more deeply educated, highly cultured and spiritual a person is legally, the more perfect he is from the ideological point of view of enlightenment. In direct connection with this ideological factor, the development of society is accelerating, the nation is growing, developing and improving ideologically and politically. The scientific and cultural level, the level of knowledge, worldview and thinking of the younger generation will fully meet the secular criteria, depending on the state of its development.

The main feature of the rule of law is the equality of all citizens before the law, the Constitution and the rule of law. The principle of the Constitution and the rule of law means that all existing laws and regulations must be based on the Constitution and comply with it. As our great-grandfather Amir Temur said: wherever the law reigns, there will be freedom.

Legal culture refers to the level of legislation of society, the level of awareness of the population about the laws in force, compliance with the norms of popular law and intolerance towards those who have not complied with them.

A.Saidov and he. "Legal culture is a separate social phenomenon that can be accepted as the embodiment of the legal state of society and the individual," wrote Todzhikhanov... The legal culture of society is considered as a kind of social culture that reflects a certain level of legal awareness, legality, improvement of laws and legal experience, and also covers all the wealth that humanity has created in the field of law. The legal culture of society is the basis for ensuring the security of human land and human rights, guaranteeing its legal protection and social activity." Scientists associate legal culture with the degree of positive law and show that the legal culture of an individual is also measured in terms of compliance with this positive right. "The legal culture of the individual is the legal culture of society, the necessary conditions and the first Creator, its purpose and composition. At the same time, it is also an aspect of the legal development of the individual, which is reflected in the level of his legal activity. It forms the basis of its significant relative to a certain level of the legal status of society and lies on its basis. The legal culture of an individual dictates his positive legal awareness in practice. He organizes creative activities corresponding to the progressive achievements of society in the field of law, as a result of which there is a constant legal enrichment of the individual. Consequently, the legal culture of a person with society, dialectics are socio-legal realities that are formed and arise.

A high level of legal culture is a characteristic feature of the rule of law. Improving the legal culture in the conditions of the formation of a market economy is an important area of activity. At the same time, the level of legal culture is determined not by the number of laws adopted, but by the implementation of these laws at all levels. In this important work, it is of particular importance to instill in people a sense of deep respect for laws and regulatory legal acts. After all, legal norms live and come true only in the fate in which people are immersed in reason and act through them.

It can be seen from the above definitions that the rule of law and legal culture are interrelated. Increasing the legal literacy of the population from year to year is the most important factor in building a rule of law state. In addition, legal education is very important for the restoration and strengthening of a democratic State and civil society. Because education cannot form a perfect person without Reform, without bringing to people's consciousness the achievements of legal culture, legal spirituality and enlightenment.

When carrying out life activities in order to improve the legal culture in the society, relations with local self-government bodies were established. Cooperation is carried out through educational institutions. Their work plans set out activities carried out in cooperation with local courts, prosecutor's offices and internal affairs bodies. In addition, joint work plans for the education of young people are being developed, and events are being organized on this basis. Educational programs and normative and educational-methodical criteria of legal education and legal training at universities and other educational institutions of the state have been developed. All this is one of the main goals of legal education - training personnel to form the legal consciousness of young people, teaching them deep respect for the requirements of society, the laws of the state, our national traditions and personnel.

In addition, the Ministry of Justice of the Republic of Uzbekistan, the State Press Service of the Republic of Uzbekistan and other interested organizations are working together to coordinate the publication of legal literature and improve the quality of published literature. Because the basis of legal education is legal literature.

Taking this into account, it would be advisable to make the following proposals for the development of society and the promotion of legal education:

Firstly, there are some problems in providing educational institutions with professional lawyers. To solve this issue, it is necessary to cooperate with higher educational institutions and formulate their involvement in educational institutions of certified specialists.

Secondly, for manufacturers associated with legal education, methodical puddles are somewhat less common. In order for teachers to effectively organize classes, it is necessary to create the necessary methodological hands on the case with the involvement of mature scientists, lawyers and experienced lawyers in the same field.

Thirdly, in cooperation with law enforcement agencies and educational institutions, legal educational events are organized between students and students. But little attention is paid to the participation of students, students in these events with their independent thoughts and initiatives.

Teachers, students and students on legal topics in quizzes, newspapers and magazines cannot be said to be adequate to come up with articles on legal topics. Therefore, it is necessary to increase the participation of young people with advanced work experience and with articles in newspapers and magazines on legal topics.

Fifth, it is necessary to carry out the activities of advocacy groups in cooperation with law enforcement agencies and other organizations on legal education and training.

This means that we should not just forget that there is still a gap in the work we are doing in this regard, shortcomings that we must overcome without being proud and proud of the achievements made in the field of education and vocational training. In fact, legal education is the main factor and the highest pledge of the fucarolic society. The legal basis for the stability of the rule of law is the consistency of law and order in society, based on the will of citizens, the protection of their rights and freedoms.

In conclusion, it should be noted that it is the duty of every citizen to deeply integrate the traditions of national values, the rich history and spiritual heritage of our people into the hearts of a prosperous country, young people who will create a bright future tomorrow, and educate them in the spirit of patriotism, self-sacrifice and universal values. Life itself, the laws of progress, achievements, goals and tasks in the future depend on the continuation of legal democratic reforms. We have never been less than anyone, no less, no less! This is the same position that young people, regardless of what field they work in, rely primarily on this call to acquire modern knowledge, conquer the peaks of knowledge, curb the most advanced methods and technologies. There are enough opportunities for this, but each of us must deeply feel this responsibility and mobilize our forces.
